explore the rich diversity
OF DOWNTOWN BERKELEY'S ARTS & CULTURE

A WORLD CLASS ARTS DISTRICT

The Downtown Berkeley Arts District has gained international acclaim. With the Berkeley Repertory Theatre as an anchor, Addison Street has blossomed into a hub of live theatre, live music, and performing arts education. On one block, you will find the Berkeley Rep's two stages, the intimate Aurora Theatre, and live music at the Jazzschool and Freight & Salvage Coffeehouse. The Poetry Walk features 128 cast-iron poetry panels installed on the sidewalk, containing poems curated by former U.S. Poet Laureate Robert Haas.

Off Addison, other new venues have expanded the arts experience. Allston Way is the home to the new Magnes Collection of Jewish Art and Life, the Marsh Arts Center and the David Brower Center's Hazel Wolf Gallery. On Kittredge Street, Landmark's Shattuck and California Theatres and United Artists offer over 20 movies nightly and special events such as East Bay Media's Berkeley Video and Film Festival. And, coming soon to the district will be the Berkeley Art Museum/Pacific Film Archive, and the UC Theatre Nightclub.

Before or after the show, enjoy dinner or drinks at over 140 eateries in Downtown Berkeley.
